

The boys we'd have in our BOYS video (and what they'd be doing in it)

Charli XCX has done a music video of her fave boys doing various delicate things.

Here are the ones we'd put in ours!

It features loads of hot boys, doing various delicate and stereotypically effeminate things, like playing with puppies, or drizzling sticky threads of maple syrup over pancakes, or sipping milk and getting it all over their lips (we're looking at YOU, Joe Jonas).

Charli says she basically got all the boys she most fancied from the pop-culture processing bin, and shoved them in her video. Including Tom Daley, MNEK, Diplo, and the aforementioned Joe Jonas. Alright for some isn't it!

So here's the boys WE'D put in our QX BOYS MUSIC VIDEO. Along with the delicate activities they'd be doing. It hasn't been made yet, but it will be. As soon as print media takes off. Any day now!

Olly Alexander putting on shorts at a party

We love Olly Alexander. He's a great role model for young gay boys, he's supercool, and contributes loads to the LGBTQI cultural conversation. Also, he looks really good trying on different pairs of shorts. Not that we've ever seen him do that. Obviously,

Frank Ocean doing a needlepoint of a rural Japanese landscape

Now we've HEARD that Frank Ocean lives in Hoxton. We've often hung around at Hoxton Station, surreptitiously hoping the Pyramids chanteur happens to walk past. He'd knock a pile of books out of our arms, we'd both bend to pick them up, he'd apologise...WE'VE THOUGHT THIS THROUGH. Basically. We're in love. And we want him to do Japanese needlepoint for us.

